Admission to the SACRe Ph.D program 2022

| visual arts | film | music composition | design | art history and theory | performing arts |

Call open from February 18, 2022 to May 12, 2022, 4pm (UTC+1, Paris)

This call is open to international candidates, without age restrictions.

The Sciences, Arts, Creation, Research (SACRe) Ph.D program is open to all candidates holding a Master's degree from any higher education institution, whether established practitioners (artists, filmmakers, designers, composers, stage directors...) and/or researchers. When she/he applies, the candidate specifies if she/he wants to benefit from a 3-years doctoral contract or if she/he already benefits from a grant.

When applying, the candidate commits to completing the course plan of Ecole doctorale 540 "Lettres, arts, sciences humaines et sociales" at PSL University, which includes participation to the SACRe common doctoral seminar, and to specific and general courses (see below).

After a successful defense, the Ph.D candidate will obtain the doctoral national diploma (Ph.D).

Overview

Allowing research and creation projects to develop in an exceptional context, enabling practitioners in various creative fields and researchers to work and invent together: this is the mission of the SACRe Ph.D program.

The program is a result of the cooperation between six institutes which are either full members or associate members of PSL: the Conservatoire national supérieur d'art dramatique (CNSAD-PSL : national theatre conservatory), Conservatoire national supérieur de musique et de danse de Paris (CNSMDP: national music and dance conservatory), École nationale supérieure des Arts décoratifs (EnsAD: national school of decorative arts), École nationale supérieure des métiers de l'image et du son (La Fémis: national school for film), École nationale supérieure des Beaux-Arts (Beaux-Arts : national school for fine arts), and the École normale supérieure (ENS-PSL).

The objective of SACRe is to facilitate the emergence and development of projects which associate art and research, and which are original in both their methods and their results. Encompassing multiple domains, as indicated by the name of the doctorate (SACRe: sciences, arts, creation and research), this truly interdisciplinary doctoral program brings together practitioners, as well as researchers in the sciences, humanities, and social sciences, thus inculcating a close articulation of thought and sensitivity.

The SACRe doctoral program consists:

- for practitioners: of the creation of works, objects or devices (dispositifs) and the redaction of a thesis, closely associated with a reflexive approach based on various theoretical and scientific fields. The thesis may be hybrid in nature, using written expression as well as other types of expression depending on the discipline. These two types of corpus - artworks and thesis - form the PhD corpus.
- for theorists: of the production of a written thesis, and of an artwork closely linked to the thesis' topic.

Terms of the Ph.D program

Ph.D supervision

The Ph.D is supervised jointly by a scientific supervisor and an artistic supervisor, for “practitioners”.

The Ph.D supervisors may preferably be chosen among SACRe / Laboratory members, or among PSL and particularly within one of the laboratories attached to the Doctoral school 540 (ED 540).

The artistic supervisor will preferably be chosen among the teaching or researching staff of the art schools attached to the SACRe program.

It is not mandatory to present a written agreement from a Ph.D supervisor in order to apply. The Ph.D supervision can be finalized after the candidate's selection by the school's jury, and before the final plenary jury (i.e. between the 2nd and 3^d rounds of the admission process).

The list of members is available on the following websites SACRe, ED 540 and PSL.

The Ph.D program proceeds for three years, as follows:

- Specific instruction is conducted in the SACRe art schools or conservatories. Each institute arranges the facilities, the organization, and the functioning of the program for the Ph.D candidates.
- A SACRe seminar (12 sessions) explores the links between research and creation for all doctoral students admitted to the program.
- Specific instruction to be chosen within the Ecole doctorale 540, PSL's “Graduate program in the Arts”, and PSL's Doctoral college.

The doctoral course plan of ED 540, including the three course categories listed above, must be completed before the PhD defense. The program includes mandatory annual assessments and annual presentation of each student's work.

The Ph.D candidates must also participate in elaborating study days, seminars, conferences and symposia, as well as public events, especially within the frame of transdisciplinary projects.

This program is in line with the doctoral instruction fixed by the 12th article of the arrêté du 25 mai 2016 concerning the national doctoral degree.

By applying, the potential Ph.D candidates agree to the terms in line with the texts stating the frame of the national doctoral degree.

Financial aid and offers related to the program

Ph.D candidates admitted by PSL receive doctoral contracts which provide them with a stipend for three years, the legal duration of the program as stated within the decree n°2016-1173 du 29 août 2016 modifying the decree n° 2009-464 du 23 avril 2009. Postponement of the thesis defense presentation beyond the legal duration of three years is only possible under exceptional circumstances and, if approved, does not prolong the doctoral contract or the financial aid. It is a full-time job and every other unrelated job will have to be officially authorized.

f – read the decree

The amount specified in the doctoral contract is 1 866 euros gross per month (amount in force since 29 August 2016).

Ph.D candidates can benefit from specific aid to mount events related to their doctoral project: support for artistic production (works, exhibitions, concerts, etc.) and scientific activities (seminars, publications, etc.).

Thesis characteristics and defense and issuance of the SACRe Doctorate in the Arts

The SACRe doctorate is primarily for creative work by Ph.D candidates from the schools for the arts, and for interaction with creators by Ph.D candidates from the ENS.

The thesis consists jointly of works of art or design in the different formats and media proper to each discipline and of a thesis. The latter highlights the sources, experiences, research, and other practices, whether artistic or not, that have influenced the work. It provides a well-reasoned and critical reflection on the work accomplished during the three years of the thesis. Its form is defined based on the characteristics and approaches specific to each discipline and is matched to the candidate's research project, with the approval of the thesis supervisors.

The Ph.D defense for Ph.D candidates in the arts is based on the presentation of the works completed by the Ph.D candidate in diverse forms (exhibition, performance, concert, projection, event, or prototype) and the thesis. The Ph.D defense for theorists is based on the presentation of the written thesis and of the practical work carried out within the specific framework of this Ph.D. In both cases, on successful completion of the public defense, the national Ph.D diploma is issued by PSL and mentions the institute where it has been prepared.

SACRe DOCTORAL PROGRAM APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS AT LA FÉMIS

Applicants who want to apply to the SACRe Ph.D in the field of cinema must do so via La Fémis. The SACRe program track recruits one candidate a year, who benefits from a doctoral stipend. The SCARe Ph.D track implies a full-time commitment, and allows no other professional commitment – unless specifically authorized.

I. REGISTRATION PROCESS

Online registration opens from February 18 to May 12 (at 4pm, Paris-time). Candidates apply by creating their applicant page thanks to a link provided on La Fémis website (« Admission » > « How to apply » > « Doctorat SACRe (PSL) »), then filling the form and uploading the requested documents in PDF format before May 12 at 4pm.

REQUESTED DOCUMENTS

1) A detailed resume

The resume must introduce the education and projects in which the candidate was involved, and any other activity related his/her scientific and artistic activities.

2) A cover letter

The cover letter (up to two pages) exposes the reasons for which the candidate wishes to apply and what he or she expects from this program.

3) A Ph.D project

The thesis project is a written document (up to 20 pages, appendices and pictures included). It presents the research project for the 3-year length of the Ph.D, which articulates artistic practice and scientific investigation. It exposes the research subject, by relying on an adequate body of literature. It explains the artistic projects which are to be developed as part of the Ph.D project. It lays out how the project will benefit from the research environment provided by the program.

4) An artistic file

A selection of the candidate's films (full length or extracts) must be sent to the jury. It is preferable that the candidate send these video documents via one or several link(s) to a video platform (such as Vimeo). These links can be indicated on a dedicated page of the artistic file. It is also possible to send the documents thanks to an online file-sharing tool (such as WeTransfer) or, if otherwise impossible, as a DVD sent by mail (to « Département recherche, Concours SACRe, La Fémis, 6, rue Francoeur, 75018 Paris).

These works must be sent along with a portfolio which presents an overview of the prior artistic work of the applicant. It can include written elements and images, which recount the recent evolution and development of the candidate's works. This portfolio has no imposed format but will not exceed 10 pages.

5) Recommendation letters and thesis supervisor's acceptance letter

Optionally, two recommendation letters, written by researchers or personalities of the art or film worlds who are familiar with the candidate's work, can be included in the application file. One of these two letters can be an acceptance letter written by a thesis supervisor for the scientific or the artistic part of the research project. It is to be noted that it is not compulsory to have the agreement of a Ph.D supervisor on applying, but that the supervision needs to be decided upon before the plenary jury.

6) French language certification

For the candidates who are not citizens of a French-speaking country, a certificate from a organisation recognized by the French government is mandatory. It must at least certify a B2 level (according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages). Alternatively, the candidate can provide a copy of a graduation diploma obtained in a French-speaking curriculum which certifies an equivalent level of mastery of French.

The applicants have to name their file in the following manner:

« NAME_Diploma(or Application file, etc.)_SACRe2022 ».

Incomplete or unreadable files will not be taken into account.

II. SELECTION PROCESS

The SACRe selection process unfolds in three steps.

A. PRE-ADMISSIBILIGY

The pre-admissibility is decided by a jury on account of the application file deposited online.

The results of this first stage will be announced in early June.

B. ADMISSIBILTY

The candidates whose application file is selected will be invited to take part in an audition. It consists of a single and public oral audition which lasts between 30 and 45 minutes, before a jury comprising researchers, artists, and representative members of La Fémis and the SACRe Ph.D program. This oral exam is in French. The candidate will especially be asked about his or her motivations and thesis project. The jury can establish, where appropriate, a waiting list.

The admissibility oral exam will occur on July 1st, 2022 (this date is liable to change).

C. FINAL ADMISSION

A jury consisting of representative members of both PSL and the institutions which are part of the SACRe program, and presided by a representative member of École doctorale 540 of the ENS, will then announce the final admission of the selected candidates, after consulting the application files and the report which will be established by each institution about the candidates they selected. This announcement will take place around mid-July 2022.

After the final admission, it is necessary for the candidate to register both at La Fémis and at Ecole normale supérieure of Paris, in order to start his or her training. The Ph.D contract starts on October 1st, 2022.
